In a recent number of the Economic Journal appears an article by Mr. Francis B. FORBES on "Indian Trade with the Far East and the New Rupee." In making the Valse recent change in the currency it was thought Valse, - that by establishing stability of exchange between India and those countries with which the greater portion of her trade is carried on there would on the whole be a substantial gain to India, although the trade with silver countries would of course suffer. Mr. Formes controverts this view and by a careful analysis of the figures attached to the Herschell Committee's report shows it is mainly in connection with her trade with the Far East that India has secured the favourable bulance of foreign trade which has enabled her to liquidate her sterling obligations. Taking an average of the two years 1890-91 and 1891-92 it appears that the trade with gold countries, which comprised nearly three-fourths of the aggregate. resulted in a favourable balance of only 133.7 million rupees, while that with the Far. East, though less than one-sixth of the aggregate, left a surplus to India of 158,4 millions. If the comparison be spread over a longer period, going back to 1870-71, we find that the aggregate trade with the Far East was never more than 201 per cent. and was sometimes under 15 per cent. averaging 16% per cent of the whole trade of India, while its proportion of the aggregate surplus was once as high as 61.9 per cent. and was never lower than 36.3 por cent, the average being 49.4 per cent; If the figures for the Straits Settlements be We have few incidents of any importance to re- are not left among all the cattle that have in separated from those for Hongkong, China, and Japan, it will be found that exports to the latter averaged 140 millions against 202 to report. millions of imports. CHINESE BOYS' TABLE DECORA.

In support of a suggestion that at the Shaughai Flower Show there should by a table competition to Chinese boys besides that for European ladies the N. C. Daily News says:-The idea has been suggested by the extraordinarily elaborate and very tasteful decorations lately seen in a remote outport, the one by a Ningpo boy, the other by a Pekingesa. The Ningpo boy relied almost entirely on flit devices on the table cloth; one a resobush in miniature, formed of bits of flat gress for stalks, with leaves and rosebuds, all first detached, then most ingeniously laid together. The napkin by this place was twisted into a snake with red seeds for eyes, a black papil to each, whilst the napkin opposite represented a wolf. Then came a landscape formed of very small bits of leaf, all green, and somewhat poeticin character. Beside another plate a miniature Abutylon plant appeared quite flat on the table, formed again of detached flower leaves and stalks, and this time with even the flowers pressed open and flattened. And so on all round the table. The Pokingese boy hardly equalled the Ningpo boy in this his own speciality of flat pictures. But he had a bowl of magnificent crimson roses in Dr. Lowson -I think we can look after that the centre of the table, raised, and with a garland of flowers round the foot.
